How can I beat status violation parking tickets in NYC?

A status violation is issued for something wrong with your car, not where it's parked. Status violations can be issued for -Equipment defects -Expired or improperly placed registration -Expired or improperly placed inspection sticker -License plates improperly displayed Here's a link to the NYC Traffic Rules .

Top 10 Tips

-A warrior must insert the correct expiration date of your registration on the parking ticket, or it will be dismissed upon application (For vehicles registered in NY)

- If you are an out-of-state vehicle, and the month and year of your registration expiration date are clearly displayed on the plate(s) or windshield, a warrior must insert the month and year of expiration, NOT N/S or N/A, or your parking ticket will be dismissed upon application

-If a vehicle is from out-of-state, you only need to display a rear plate

- If a warrior charges you with "improper" display of plate(s), inspection sticker, or registration sticker, he/she must explain why it was "improperly displayed" on the parking ticket, or it will be dismissed upon application - If you are a non-resident of NY and become a resident, the law allows your out-of-state inspection to be valid until it expires, or from one year of being registered in NY

- If you are a resident of NY and purchased your vehicle out-of-state, you will get a ten (10) day grace period (As long as you IMMEDIATELY attach your temporary sticker) to get the car inspected in NY

Rule	Description

Valid plates must be properly displayed	Plates from all states must be displayed properly according to the law of that state
Valid registration sticker	If a vehicle bears NY plates, registration must be properly displayed
Improper stickers prohibited	If a vehicle bears NY plates, it is prohibited from displaying expired, mutilated, void, imitation, counterfeit, sticker
Registration plates, stickers, and tags must match	Applies to all vehicles, regardless of state of registry
Valid inspection sticker	If a vehicle bears NY plates, it must be properly inspected, and properly display current inspection sticker or certificate (except dealer and transporter plates)

Obscuring VIN prohibited	Don't ever obscure the VIN!

-If you are issued one (1) parking ticket for a "status violation," all additional "status violation" parking tickets issued on the same day as the first "status violation" will be dismissed upon application

- Generally, the place of occurrence is a required element. However, since a "status violation" involves your vehicle and not the location where it parked, a misdescribed place of occurrence does NOT entitle you to a dismissal of your parking ticket...Sorry

- You have twenty-four (24) hours from the issuance of a parking ticket for missing or damaged equipment to fix it. You are permitted to submit proof of the "fix" to the PVB, and your ticket

- If you are issued a status violation parking ticket, you are not granted a grace period to remedy the violation. For example, if you park your chariot with an expired inspection sticker, you are eligible for a ticket. You are not permitted to inspect your car and raise the subsequent inspection as a defense

Park safely,
